

Creepers

I don't know if they opened up the doors of Creepville and let out all the creepy men or what. I've never had so many men try to contact me on Facebook in my entire life...I've never had so many men try to "talk" to me online. UGH. It's a new way of marketing I guess.

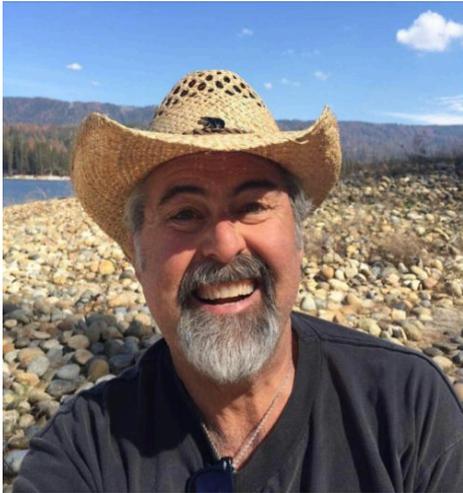

It all started about 2 months ago. I was playing Words with Friends. For those of you who don't know, it's an online game you can play with your friends much like Scrabble.

I love playing and have been playing for several years. I got a request to play with someone I didn't know. I didn't think anything of it as this happens on occasion. We played back and forth a few rounds and then a notification came indicated there was a message for me. I opened the messages and the guy had written this, "Good Morning Beautiful, it's nice playing with you." GAG ME! He definitely had the wrong girl!! I decided to end the game with him. Then the creep tried to open a game with me again.

A few days later...same thing only the guy had a different name. Again I ended the game. A few days later again and again. YUCK! Here's a picture of one of the creepers...

Then a week after all of that I got a message request on Messenger. It was from a guy again. I accepted it as many of my childcare parents first contact me through Facebook...and we do sell some old stuff on Facebook so I didn't know if it was related to something like that.

Nope...it was a creeper again trying to sell something. This one I straight out asked what he was selling...he said, "how do you know I'm selling something?" DUH!

I am writing this as a warning ladies. These kind of men are creeps. They are just trying to flatter you to get something from you. They are doing the same thing to MANY other women out there. Don't believe it. Don't buy from them...don't give them any more contact information. Close out of what you are doing and block them. Nothing good can come from it.

I can't believe that there are such lowlifes in the world that would stoop to preying on others. YUCK, YUCK, YUCK!! It's so sad that there are people doing this and sad that some fall into the trap. Honestly readers, they are creepers. Don't buy into their "Good Morning Beautiful" crap.

Has this been happening to others of you? I'm hoping not.
