

Friday Finish: Snowflake Center Piece

If you are new to the blog, welcome. You have reached a FREE archived pattern. We typically put up new blog post twice daily so there is always something new and fresh here.

Click HERE and see what's new today...

Some time ago I did some work for Accuquilt designing a few things. We ended up parting ways but the patterns I designed and rights to them are all mine. I debated and debated what to do with the designs  and then finally I decided to just give them away for free here on the blog. This is the second of four patterns that we'll feature.

If you don't have an Accuquilt Cutter, don't worry. I have rewritten the patterns so anyone can make them with or without a Go. Your snowflakes will be a little different but it will still work. This would also make a great Christmas Tree Skirt.

The design consists of four blocks that are the same and one different center block. There are also 4 triangle pieces.

If you are looking for a way to create snowflakes without having an Accuquilt cutter, you can try this method from my Making Learning Fun website that uses circles, hexagons, triangles and squares.

Here is a link to the Fluttering Flakes Centerpiece.

You can find MANY other free patterns on our site by looking under the free patterns tab at the top of the page under our banner. Stop by again...