

GOing, GOing, GOne

Two years ago, AccuQuilt gave me GO! Cutter to review along with three dies. I tried it..and liked it.

Since then something that I did find hard was “working backwards”. Typically when we make a quilt, we design around the fabric...with a GO!, we have to design around a shape. I found myself wanting to work with smaller pieces and they don't offer many dies that are small. If you read my blog you know that I am not an applique-er and so many of their items feature applique.

I found myself making projects, so I could do a video, so I could get another die, yet I didn't use the GO! in between video projects.

I found the storage space in my sewing room diminishing. After putting on my “Yard Sale” earlier this month, I noticed more room in my cupboards and liked that...I liked it so much that I decided to do a little deeper cleaning. If I haven't used it...out it goes.

After careful consideration, I decided that I am going to sell my AccuQuilt GO! and the dies. I thought I would wait for the "Yard Sales" but that was SO hectic that I don't want to deal with the GO! goodies then too. If anyone is interested, feel free to email me rogjok@iowatelecom.net.

I am so glad that I got a chance to try a GO!...all in all, it's a fine product. I am just feeling the need to downsize.
