

Merrily I Quilt Along...

Merrily I quilt along, quilt along, quilt along. Merrily I quilt along...

Over the last month or so I have been busy quilting along with Amanda Jean from Crazy Mom Quilts. It has been really fun and I encourage anyone who likes quilting to try a quilt along. Each day participants are asked to make one nine patch block. We are on day 58 but I confess, I worked ahead and have all 70 blocks finished.

I looked at all the wonderful photos of everyone's projects and longed to purchase some bright "springish" looking fabric but I didn't cave in to the pressure and used my reproduction fabrics scraps instead. Today, I am trying to figure out which fabric in my stash to use for sashing...

This quilt along has been SO much fun. I would really like to try another one... It's kind of addicting.... Amanda Jean has sponsored a couple of them. I think I might go back and try one from her previous posts. Old Red Barn is sponsoring one too! I told you this is kind of addicting.

Just out of curiosity...can a person have too many quilting projects going at once...Nah, I didn't think so.
