

UFO Challenge

I thought I was doing good. Last week I was starting in on making the center nine patches for Talkin' Turkey. Remember?

Well I stole some time on Sunday to get these center done. No one noticed, now did I that I was up to my old problems...not looking carefully enough at the directions. I thought I was suppose to be making traditional nine patches but I was wrong. I need to be making cross blocks. UGH.

I had made LOTS of the strips that went red-neutral-red. I didn't need them. I needed red-red-red!
UGH.

Back to the sewing the machine. Happily my scrap bucket had enough more strips so I didn't need to cut fabric. I ended up getting up early Monday morning and this is what I accomplished.

Yahoo. I the 36 CROSS patches done.

Coming up this week I'll start in on some block assembly. I can't wait.

See you right back here next Wednesday.
