

Wool Candle Mat...FINISHED!

I finished my little wool project just in time to meet the deadline. Here's a close up.

We had it mounted to a black matting. Now the cast of the play are going to sign the black matting with a gold metallic pen and give it to the director of their play, The Egg and I, as a gift . It's actually a little candle mat pattern from Bareroots.

I started it a week or so ago...It took one evening to cut it out and two evenings to stitch. A quick little project...now I wish I had one for myself. That's always the way it goes when I make something for someone else.