Friday Finish: Kelli's Novelty Quilt Tutorial

If you are new to the blog, welcome.  You have reached an archived FREE pattern.  We typically put up new blog post twice daily so there is always something new and fresh here.  We host lots of giveaways too.  Click HERE and see what's new today…

I just love today's Friday Finish.  It's a toddler or throw quilt made and designed by Kelli..quilted and bound by me.

If you're looking for a quick quilt, the construction is really quite easy.

If you want to make one for yourself you need:
1 3/4 yards novelty print
1 3/4 yards total of solid prints
1/2 yard binding
4 yards backing

49 squares of novelty print cut in 6 1/2″ x 6 1/2″ squares.
1152 square of solids cut in 2″ x 2″ squares.

Sew the squares together as shown in sets of four. Mixing up the position of the colors.  Make 98 units.
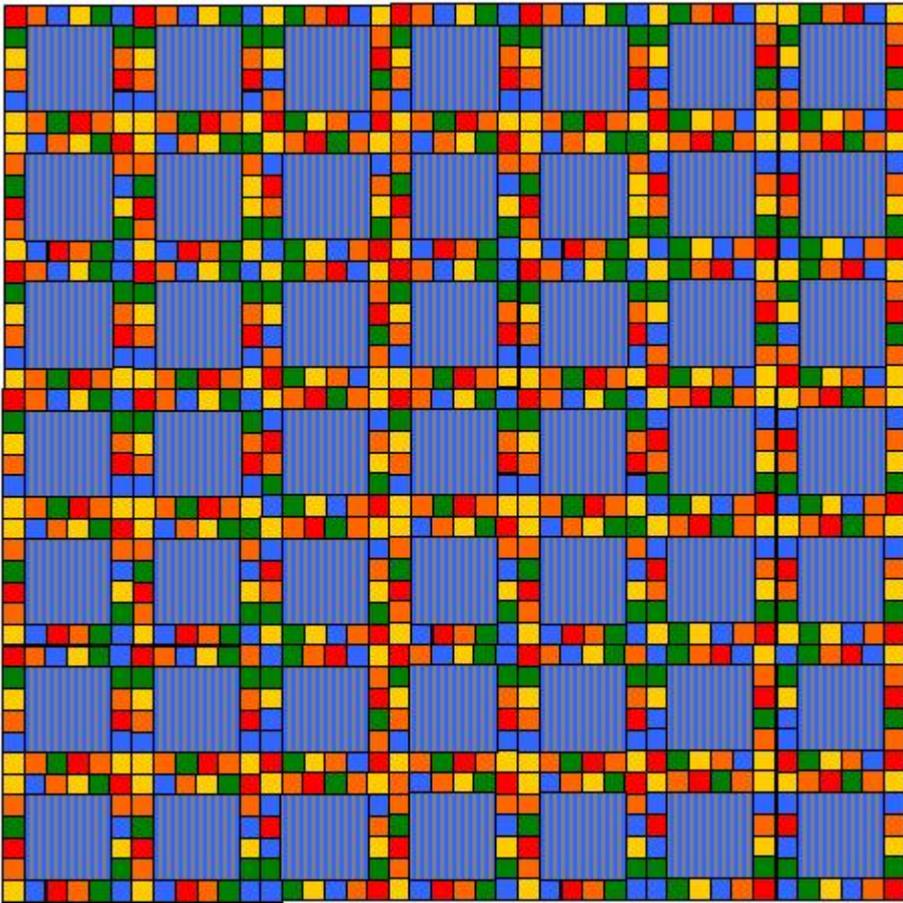

Sew the squares together as shown in sets of six. Mixing up the position of the colors.  Make 98.

Sew the strip sets onto the 6 1/2″ novelty print squares as shown.

Sew the square together.  Don't worry if the same solid color touches.  You won't see it in the end.

From the remaining squares, sew two sections that have 42 squares and two sections that have 44 squares.  Add them to the outside edges of the quilt.

Now you're ready to quilt it.

I quilted mine with a square motif.  I used Maxi-Lock® Swirl – Variegated Thread 3,000 yds – #56 Tie Dye Punch for the thread on top and a red for the back.

The quilt ends up being 66″ x 66″.  You can easily add or subtract blocks to make it the size you are looking for.

This quilt is going in the donation pile.  The next time a benefit, disaster or someone in need has use of it, we are passing it along to them.

Today, we are hooking up with……Confessions of a Fabric Addict, Link a Finish Friday, Freedom Fridays, Quilt Story, and Crazy Mom Quilts.

You can find MANY other free pattern on our site by looking under the free patterns tab at the top of the page under our banner.  Stop by again…